Zoro's Acknowledgements

First and foremost, I humbly give thanks to God the Father, for the gift of creation, life, and music, and for all the creative abilities He has bestowed upon man. To the Holy Spirit, for giving me purpose and teaching me how to fulfill the dreams He placed in my heart, and for giving me the strength and courage needed to pursue them. To my Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, for dying on the cross so that I may have eternal life in the hereafter—and victory in this one.

From the bottom of my heart, I wish to thank my wife, Renee, and my children, Jarod and Jordan, for blessing me and filling my life with unspeakable joy and inspiration. I live to serve you and thank God for you every day. I also want to extend my love and gratitude to my sister Patricia, my brother Bobby, and my in-laws, Wil, and Sandy Strong, for being so encouraging and blessing me throughout the years. Love goes out to all of the rest of my brothers and sisters: Armando, Maria, Ricardo, and Lisa, for being my family and putting up with me through the years!

I wish to dedicate my portion of this book to my beloved and departed mother, Maria, for being the absolute light of my life and the greatest mother a boy could have. She was a tremendous source of encouragement, inspiration, and love, and it was truly an honor to be her son. None of my success would have been possible without her. Thanks, Mother, for filling my heart with enthusiasm and high hopes, and for believing in me the way you did! When I get to heaven, yours is the first face I will seek!

I wish to express my deepest gratitude to my partner Daniel Glass for his vision, passion, dedication to excellence, and patience with this monumental project. You have done an amazing job!

I sincerely thank my partners Lenny Kravitz, Jerry Hammack, and Russ Miller for their friendship, inspiration, and wisdom throughout the years. You have made the fruit I endeavor to bear that much sweeter; you have played pivotal roles in the success I have been able to experience. THANK YOU!

Much love, honor, and respect goes out to my early mentors who played key roles in shaping me in my formative years: Bill and Beverly Large,

Eric Christianson, Kent Clinkingbeard, and Al McKay and Ralph Johnson of Earth, Wind & Fire.

In appreciation for blessing me with their gifts, talents, favor, and friendship, a heartfelt thanks goes out to Glenn Noyes, Ray Brych, Kenric Knecht, Allen Rhodes, Carlo Krouzian, Tim Fogerty, Brian Mason, Amy Hagberg, Anthony Albanese, Jackie Monaghan, Jusden Aumand, Robert Jolly, Kyle Prins, Eric Rhodes, Dustin Ransom, Pastor Marty Layton, Dave and Joyce Meyer, Dr. Chris Norton, Dr. Cynthia Curtis, and the all of the staff and students at Belmont University in Nashville, Tennessee.

I would also like to thank Compassion International and the Big Brothers Big Sisters of America organizations for allowing me the privilege of partnering with them in the great work they do around the world to change the lives of children.

My sincere thanks to Ron Manus, John O'Reilly Jr., Link Harnsberger, Ted Engelbart, Dave Black, Mark Burgess, Michael Finkelstein, Antonio Ferranti, Karissa Read, Rich Lackowski, and the entire staff at Alfred Music Publishing for their faith in this project and all that I do. Thanks also goes to all of those formerly at Warner Bros. Publications who helped to make the first Commandments book such a huge success: Dave Hakim, Ray Brych, and the gang.

Special thanks and much love to Marco Soccoli; Vic Firth; Andy, Bill, and Sally Zildjian; Nort Hargrove; Mark Love; Wayne Blanchard; Ann MacNally; Nick Petrella; Stacey Montgomery Clark; Don and Chris Lombardi; John Goode; Scott Garrison; Juels Thomas; Scott Donnell; Cliff Castle; John Roderick; Mike Robinson; Steve Lobmeier; Hugh Gilmartin; Steve Nigohosian; and Angelo Arimborgo for the privilege of using their equipment and continued support of all I endeavor to do.

Thanks to every person at the following companies for their dedication to excellence: DW drums, Sabian cymbals, Evans drumheads, Vic Firth sticks, Latin Percussion, Audix microphones, SKB cases, and Danmar bass drum beaters. I am one of the lucky recipients who benefits from your labor of love. It's truly an honor to play the instruments that you create, manufacture, and sell. THANKS SO MUCH for giving me an extraordinary sound that inspires!

I also wish to extend my gratitude to all the drummers, musicians, and recording artists mentioned throughout this book—as well as those not mentioned—for their tremendous talent and inspiration, and for sharing their utter funkiness with the rest of the world. You are the unsung heroes of groove!

I would also like to acknowledge my appreciation to the following magazines for their support and friendship throughout the years: Modern Drummer, DRUM!, Drum Head, Classic Drummer, Not So Modern Drummer, Rhythm, Drummer, Todo Percussion, Bateria Total, Batera & Percussao, Slagwerkkrant Sticks, Drums & Percussion, Rhythm & Drums, Drum Club, Drums etc., Batteur, Drum Scene, Percussioni, and all the other drum publications throughout the world.

Lastly, I would like to thank all of the drum shops, music stores and chains, drum schools, professors, music colleges, and festivals throughout the world that have invited me to share at clinics and educational events throughout my career. It has been an honor to partner with you in spreading the gospel of rhythm and blues drumming and the joy of grooving.

Daniel's Acknowledgements

First off, big thanks to Zoro, for his wisdom, his guidance, and his unwavering belief in this project from day one. Z, you were always there to motivate me, even when I didn't believe we'd ever get to the finish line.

Thanks to my family—my father Tom, my mother Harriet, my sister Rachel, and my aunt Judy and uncle John. You guys have been my rock of Gibraltar since the beginning!

To all my bandmates in Royal Crown Revue (past and present): thanks for opening up my eyes and ears to all this great music in the first place.

To George Johnsen (along with Roberta, Adam, and Zack), for your incredible talent, boundless ingenuity, and endless patience in bringing the CD to life. Your presence made this project a thousand times better than it was before (and Star Trek is awesome!). Thanks also to Mando Dorame for the terrific horn arrangements.

To John O'Reilly Jr., Mark Burgess, and all the folks at Alfred Publishing: thanks for your wonderful work and inspired belief in this project. You guys get it!

Special thanks to all of the interviewees for so freely and warmly offering their time, insight, and inspiration. Thanks, too, for access to your wonderful photos and other memorabilia. I am forever in your debt.

Thanks to the "tech support" crew: Earl Palmer, Louie Bellson, Billy Vera, Jim Dawson, Judy Glass, Scott Yanow, Bill Gardner, and Steve Propes for their editorial assistance and/or historical expertise. To Mark Cally, Vinnie Santino, and Tim Davies for their help in deciphering Photoshop, Finale, and other vexing software. To Rob Cook and John Aldridge for sharing their incredible knowledge of vintage drums and the history surrounding them.

My sincere thanks to the following equipment companies and their representatives: Don Lombardi, Garrison, and Juels Thomas at Drum Workshop; Roy Burns and Chris Brady at Aquarian Drumheads; Michael and Kevin Vosbein at Bosphorus Cymbals; Eric Anderson and Tim Keane at Trueline Drumsticks; Carol and Cathy Calato at Regal Tip; and Jonathan Colwell at Revolution Drum Products. Thanks to all of you for your ongoing support in my "crusade" to educate drummers about their history.

Thanks, also, to those whose support and assistance allowed this book to come together: Mike Finkelstein, Ray Brych, David Hakim, Tucker Williamson, Kim Vollstedt, Louie and Francine Bellson, Norma Kirkwood and Johnny Kirkwood Jr., Dean Mora, Jonathan Stout, Scott Yanow, Todd Trent at Ontario Music, John Beck, Bob Breithaupt, George Paczynski, Yves Magnier, Johnny Otis, Joey Altruda, Ross Garfield, Lee Smith, Mark Tortorizzi, Chester Whitmore, Tony Braunagel, Steve Smith, Marcella Manzanedo, Denny Hankla, Michael Andrew and Sonja Haltweinger, Ingrid Lucia, Chris Merchant, Frances Nicholais, Vince Giordano, Chris Markwood, Vinnie and Jacqueline Santino, Mike Dubin, Fabian Jolivet, D.J. Bonebrake, C.G. Ryche, Carlos Lopez, Lloyd Knibbs, Bobby Trimble, Joey Myers, Willie McNeil, and all my drum brothers on the roots scene.

Thanks to those teachers who inspired me along the way: Lois Russell, Victor Tibbs, Harold Chang, Dr. Donald Morosic, Bob Gullotti, Chuck James, Steve Houghton, Peter Donald, John Ferraro, Emil Richards, Chuck Silverman, Brian Kilgore, Bob Fernandez, Joel DiBartolo, Dean Taba, Freddie Gruber, and Bruce Becker.

Thanks also to Bill Miller, Adam Budofsky, and Sue Hurring at Modern Drummer magazine, Andy Doerschuk and Andrew Lenz at DRUM!, Billy Jeansonne at Classic Drummer magazine, and Frank Corniola at Drumscene magazine.

Thanks to James Austin and the folks at Rhino Records, Atlantic Records, Proper Records, MCA/Universal, Capitol/EMI, Sony/BMG, Verve Music Group, Ace Records, Chronological Classics, Specialty Records, Rykodisc, Collectables Records, Alligator Records, Delmark Records, Ocium Records, Scamp Records, Varese Saraband Records, Indigo Records and Da Capo Press.

About the Authors

ZORO: A GROOVE FOR THE GENERATIONS

He is the consummate definition of the rare man who marches to the beat of a different drum.

Zoro has sat on the drummer's throne commanding some of the most famous stages in the world of rock and R&B music. One of the funkier drummers on the planet, Z has toured and recorded with Lenny Kravitz, Bobby Brown, Frankie Valli and the Four Seasons, The New Edition, Jody Watley, Philip Bailey of Earth, Wind & Fire, Vanessa Paradis, Sean Lennon, Lisa Marie Presley, and many others.

Throughout his career, he has consistently been voted No. 1 R&B Drummer and Clinician in the world by premier music industry publications such as Modern Drummer, DRUM!, and Rhythm magazines.

Often called the "Minister of Groove," Zoro authored the No. 1 award-winning and best-selling book and DVD package The Commandments of R&B Drumming, which was awarded industry accolades as the ultimate lesson from the master.

"Zoro wrote the book on dynamics, touch, control and groove," says Modern Drummer magazine. One of Z's most inspiring performances can be seen on the DVD titled Modern Drummer Festival 2005 (Hudson Music).

Z is a sought-after player, motivational speaker, and clinician because he's real, relevant, and relatable, and connects with all generations. He has the heart of a true teacher and is motivated to serve and inspire his audience with all that he has.

Zoro is a kinetic bundle of human energy and enthusiasm. His heartbeat is in the groove itself, and his is "a groove for the generations."

DANIEL GLASS

Daniel grew up in Honolulu, Hawaii, and started playing drums at the age of eight. After obtaining a bachelor's degree from Brandeis University in Boston, he continued his musical training at the Dick Grove School of Music in Los Angeles, California. In 1994, Daniel joined L.A. swing phenomenon Royal Crown Revue (RCR), the group that is considered the inspiration behind the "retro swing" phenomenon of the '90s. Signed to the Warner Brothers label by super-producer Ted Templeman (Van Halen, Doobie Bros., Van Morrison), RCR combined a classic American sound and style with a rock 'n' roll presentation, allowing them to successfully cross over onto MTV and modern rock radio.

RCR has performed all over the world, making regular stops in Europe, Australia, and Japan, in addition to the United States. Festival appearances range from the Warped Tour to the Playboy Jazz Festival, and the group has worked with a wide variety of artists from the Pretenders and the B-52s to the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra. Starting with the 1994 Jim Carrey blockbuster The Mask, RCR's music has appeared in countless TV shows, movie trailers, and ad campaigns worldwide.

Outside of RCR, Daniel has performed and recorded with Bette Midler, Gene Simmons, Freddy Cole, Mike Ness (Social Distortion), Al Viola (Frank Sinatra), Page Cavanaugh, Plas Johnson, Barbara Morrison, Debbie Davies, and rockabilly legends Robert Gordon and Unknown Hinson, among many others. He has also appeared on numerous film and television scores. Daniel's label, VeryTall Music, has released two successful CDs, and Daniel has produced a variety of artists as well.

In addition to his work as musician and producer, Daniel is a published writer, a respected clinician, and burgeoning music historian. He is the author of two books, The Ultimate History of Rock 'n' Roll Drumming: 1948-2000 and The RCR Drum Transcription Book, and has published articles in The Encyclopedia of Percussion, The MusicHound Swing Essential Album Guide, Modern Drummer magazine, DRUM!, Classic Drummer, and Stick It magazine. He is a regular contributor to music websites like www.musician.com and periodically hosts the jazz channel for the Delta Airlines inflight radio network.

R&B Brush Grooves

“Sweepin’ Up”

Brushes—traditionally made out of wire strands attached to wood handles—have been around since the earliest days of jazz. (One theory goes that the first brushes were converted out of fly swatters.) Initially, drummers used them as substitutes for sticks when they needed to keep the volume down. However, when Count Basie’s drummer, “Papa” Jo Jones, first introduced the “sweep” stroke in the late ’30s, brush playing became an art form unto itself.

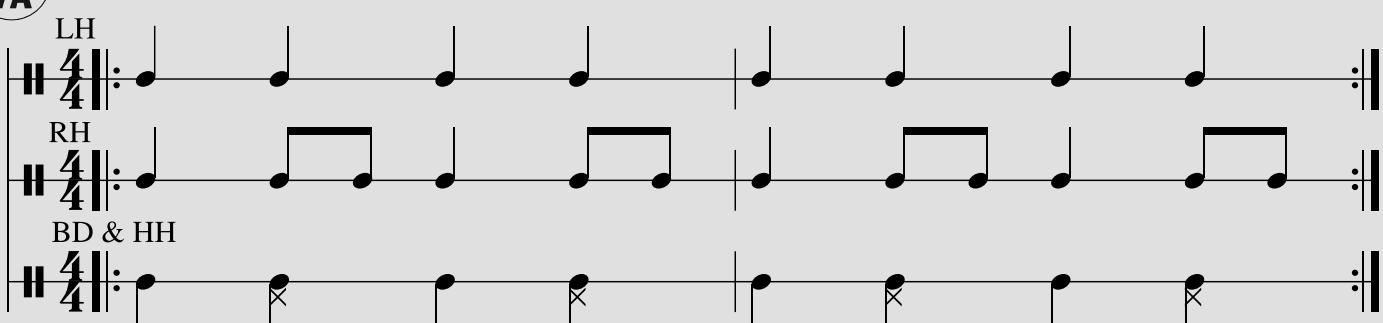

Papa Jo perfected his style by imitating the many dancers he’d worked with early in his career (among them the legendary Bill “Bojangles” Robinson). The sweep stroke evolved from watching “sand dancers,” street performers who would sprinkle sand on the ground or in a box, then drag their feet lightly over the grains to get a hissing effect.

As swing developed into R&B, drummers continued to make strong use of the brushes. This was often done out of necessity. Studio technology wasn’t equipped to handle explosive sounds like cymbal crashes, and P.A. systems did not yet include monitors (they wouldn’t show up until the ’60s). Simply put, it would not take much effort for the drummer to drown out the entire band.

This is not to say that R&B drummers didn’t groove hard when holding a pair of brushes. In fact, the two highest charting R&B songs of all time—“The Honeydripper” by Joe Liggins and “Choo Choo Ch’Boogie” by Louis Jordan—are both brush tunes! Not exactly what you’d expect from the music that is celebrated as the precursor to rock ‘n’ roll.

Here is a typical brush groove that was popular in both the swing and early R&B eras. Notice that the left hand is not playing a sweep stroke.

Now, here’s the same groove with the sweep added.
